Companies are now on the clock for comments on the new proposed California Privacy Rights Act (CPRA) regulations. On July 8, 2022, the California Privacy Protection Agency (CPPA) filed a Notice of Proposed Action, triggering a 45-day comment period (followed by a public hearing and an additional 15-day comment period if the CPPA proposes material changes as a result of public comments) on the first set of draft regulations governing compliance with the California Consumer Privacy Act (CCPA), as amended by the CPRA (“CPRA Amendments”).

The CPPA’s draft regulations update the CCPA regulations promulgated by the California Attorney General,^{1} with the goal of harmonizing requirements under the CCPA with new rights and concepts introduced by the CPRA Amendments.^{2}
